Aquino will pick reformist CJ-Palace

By TJ Burgosio, Christine O. Anandata and Christian K. Espuerra

PRESIDENT Aquino will appoint the next Chief Justice who can best carry out the judicial reform that began with the ouster of Chief Justice Renato Corona, Malacañang said yesterday.

"We will be looking for a prospective Chief Justice who has the integrity, competence, political will and commitment to pursue and put into effect these reforms," Budget Secretary Florante Alonzo, senior political adviser to the President, said in a text message.

Alonzo said judicial reform is among the key pillars of the President's "reform agenda."

US mulls moving assets from Afghanistan to PH

By Philip C. Talavera

WASHINGTON—The United States is considering moving its military assets from Afghanistan to the Philippines, according to a report from the US Defense Department. The report, which was released last week, says that the US is looking for ways to reduce its military presence in Afghanistan and to increase its presence in the Philippines. The report also says that the US is considering moving its military assets from Afghanistan to the Philippines, including its military bases and its military personnel.

As the US military presence in Afghanistan declines, the US is looking for ways to increase its presence in the Philippines. The report says that the US is considering moving its military assets from Afghanistan to the Philippines, including its military bases and its military personnel.

Storms

ANALYSIS

Armando
Dacabala

The devastation caused by the floods results not only from the amount of rainfall, but also from a lack of planning and coordination in terms of urbanization

THE PHILIPPINES is a rising hot spot for more severe tropical storms. Before the month's six major floods, it had already caused more than 100 deaths and 100,000 people were displaced. The floods killed several dozen people, rendered homes and businesses unusable, and caused significant damage to crops and infrastructure. The victims included, most notably, the victims of the typhoon in the Philippines.

The Philippines, because of a combination of factors, has been hit by a series of tropical storms. The country is located in the western Pacific Ocean, and is surrounded by the Philippine Sea. The country is also a member of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and is a member of the United Nations. The country is also a member of the World Trade Organization (WTO), and is a member of the World Bank.

The country's location, its geography, and its climate are all factors that contribute to the country's vulnerability to tropical storms. The country is located in the western Pacific Ocean, and is surrounded by the Philippine Sea. The country is also a member of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), and is a member of the United Nations. The country is also a member of the World Trade Organization (WTO), and is a member of the World Bank.

Despite the victims of the Philippines to storm and the significant damage, the Philippines government, yet not present, have failed to come up with adequate preparedness and response to prevent the loss of lives, and to provide relief to the people who have been affected by the floods. The government has failed to provide relief to the people who have been affected by the floods. The government has failed to provide relief to the people who have been affected by the floods.

In the world you will have affliction.
But take courage, I have overcome the world.

Our Lord's words to His disciples: John XVI 33

ROSARY and CONSECRATION CRUSADE

INVOKING THE INTERCESSION OF
MARY MEDIATRIX OF ALL-GRACE
IN REPARATION FOR SINS
AND FOR THE DEFEAT OF THE CULTURE OF DEATH

We turn again to the Eosd, with and through Our Lady, His Most Blessed Mother and our Mediatrix with the Lord Jesus Christ, who is All-Grace Himself: the Source and Fount of all graces.

Today the Solemnity of Our Lady's Assumption into Heaven, we ask the Catholic Faithful, and all men and women of goodwill, to join us in this Prayer Crusade to ask the Lord for forgiveness from all our sins especially those committed against God's gift of life and family—personal and collective—and to beg Him, through Our Lady's intercession, the grace of the defeat of the Culture of Death.

There is no problem, however difficult it maybe, whether temporal or spiritual, personal or familial, national or international that cannot be solved by the prayer of the Rosary

-Sister Lucia of Fatima

PRAY THE ROSARY DAILY
AND MAKE THE CONSECRATION TO THE IMMACULATE HEART OF MARY

But, be not afraid for the love of my Son will soften the hardest of sinners and my motherly love will be their strength to crush the enemies of God.

-Our Lady's words at Lipe Carmel, 12 November 1948

In Lipe Carmel, our Lady asked for total Consecration to her following the devotional manner articulated by St. Louis de Montfort. In that spirit, let us pray daily:

Totus tuus ego sum, et omnia mea tua sunt.
Accipio te in mea omnia.
Praebe mihi cor tuum, Maria.

I am all yours, and all that I have is yours.
I take you for my all. O Mary, give me your heart.

Every time you pray the Rosary and the Consecration, please include the following intentions:

For the Church, her leaders, and members.

The Catholic Church and her leaders are under cruel and constant attack for standing up against the Culture of Death such as the Reproductive Health Bill pending in Congress that neither addresses the root cause of poverty nor the health care needed both by the mothers and their children.

While our Church leaders and members are far from being perfect and holy, we ask the Lord and Our Lady to give them strength, courage, and fortitude to proclaim the Gospel of Life.

For the Philippine Congress.

We ask the Lord and Our Lady that they be committed to the cause of Life, and that they reject the Reproductive Health/Responsible Parenthood Bill and all other proposed measures opposed to God's gift of Life and the Family.

For the Philippine society.

Admittedly the issue of contraception has so divided our land. While we respect the dissenting opinions and values, we humbly and whole-heartedly embrace the Catholic Church's teaching on the moral unacceptability of contraception use. It is not the Church imposing her morality to the general society. It is indeed the government intruding into the moral and religious realm through the pushing of the passage of the RHDP Bill.

May the Lord and Our Lady heal the division of our people. May we all embrace and live a Culture of Life and Celebration of Love, and reject the contraceptive mentality.

For our young people.

May our youth, the hope of the Church and of our nation, not only of the future but even of today, that they may be and appreciate that chastity is a joyful virtue. That the Discern and Church precepts are not a list of do's and don'ts but a means to attain holiness, and that they may grow and mature full of faith and trust in God.

For the sick, the infirmed, the poor, the elderly, the abused women and children, and those who are suffering.

May the Lord and Our Lady alleviate their suffering and comfort them in their needs. When they are alone, may they not feel abandoned nor be in despair. May they generously offer to God their suffering and infirmity as a sacrifice and prayer on behalf of all mankind.

And may the Lord prosper us in having inspired them, and may we have the resolve to do our best in performing Spiritual and Charitable Works of Mercy.

To culminate this Rosary Crusade, join us in Lipe Carmel, 12 September 2012, for the National Pilgrimage in honor of Our Lady, MARY MEDIATRIX OF ALL-GRACE

Aquino will pick reformist Chief Justice—Palace

"The President did not expect the opposition and subsequent conviction of the late Chief Justice and several political capital in the process only to end up with a Chief Justice who is unable to follow through effectively, and in a contained way in this reform process," he said.

The Judicial Bar Council (JBC) said the Palace on Monday a short list of eight candidates for the next Chief Justice. It narrowed out of 20 nominees, that are being Chief Justice Antonio Carpio, Associate Justices Roberto Abad, Antonio Brion, Ma Lourdes Sereno and Teresita Leonardo de Castro, including General Francisco Jardeña, the son of late President Corason and former director of the Armed Forces.

Abad said he was the President's call whether to name the next Chief Justice before Aug. 27.

Two-up Sereno, Jardeña
He did not comment on his brother's nomination. Jardeña's nomination was the choice for the next Chief Justice was a two-up between Sereno and Jardeña.

to not "think the President would do that," but he later said "There is a final decision by the JBC."

Tapes said he sympathized with De Lima, but shared his skepticism that he had been "wiped out," he said. De Lima's one non-illustrious time chose of Aquino, who was included in the short list, and Sereno and Leonardo Leonardo, who were included in the short list, and Leonardo Leonardo, who were included in the short list.

"She was never swept out. It was really based on the rules of the JBC," he said. "I expect that she was not too bad of."

Tapes said De Lima worked on the case with Sereno's impeachment. De Lima took the reformist stand for the prosecution, which was headed by Tapes.

He said, it was OK for her to become Chief Justice. It just so happened that they were not, he said.

Tapes said the eight members of the JBC were equally divided 4-4 on Tapes's move to either suspend or suspend the new appointing commission, which would allow him to suspend the case. He said suspending the case would benefit only De Lima because both Jardeña and Leonardo had been cleared for nomination.

The JBC was actually set to submit only five names of prospective Chief Justices to the President. But Tapes said the number allowed to eight when the council opted to include all nominees that got a majority vote of five.

De Lima on two disbarment cases stemming from his defiance of a Supreme Court injunction restraining online speech by members of a build disbarment order in spite of the absence of criminal charges filed against former President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, and her disbarment order while he was still Chief Justice.

"There is nothing that I can do now that can undo the fact of my term," he said. He called the JBC decision "quite unfair."

De Lima said he was not going to include De Lima in the short list.

"Before the writing, Undersecretary Mangal of justice, an obviously he still had a last-chance effort—suspended," he said.

JBC decision final

Tapes declined to say when asked if the JBC would submit its proposal to the President around the short list. It happened during the Aquino administration, but the council did not serve.

The JBC representative said disparagement of the high court and the JBC should De Lima's conspiracy theory "to speak conspiracy" and spokesperson Gloria Arroyo said in a text message. JBC spokesperson Wally Cruz Arroyo said De Lima was "unintentionally upset" but that the group "acted on his case in accordance with the rules."

He said Tapes, representative of the JBC, was the JBC, and eventually said that the JBC decision "quite unfair."

SOUTHEAST ASIA SHIPPING CORPORATION

30 Years in Ship Manning Excellence through Quality Seafarers

TESTIMONIALS IN CARE AND EMPLOYMENT

I convey my warmest greetings and congratulations to the officers and staff of Southeast Asia Shipping Corporation (SEASCO) on the occasion of your company's 30th anniversary on 29 July 2011.

I am happy to acknowledge the hard work of all you have spent to focus your collaboration this past year addressing the pressing and growing need for seafarers and on your corporate social responsibility projects to uplift the lives of Filipino seafarers and their families.

Thirty years of selfless efforts of promoting our Filipino seafarers' competence, do well in their respective fields, health and welfare, and discipline that makes them the most sought-after by employers abroad are a credit to your vision and commitment. And your commitment to the development of globally competent and professionally trained seafarers deserves the government's support and recognition.

Realizing CSR means doing good for people and your noble intention to help them when in need of assistance, such as your support to Global Aids, which will surely go long way in uplifting the plight of our poor, sick, and aging citizens. I also commend your support in planning activities which support the government's growing program.

With your team working on this important task in your organization.

Advancing
Philippine Seafarers' Welfare
Sincerely

Thirty years ago Southeast Asia Shipping Corporation (SEASCO) started serving to the sea manning and ship agency business. It was a positive moment, shaping business and then developing the services of all seafarers involved. Filipino seafarers are in your demand worldwide since in their areas of health, food and social welfare.

SEASCO has been the backbone and the constant link between seafarers by Japanese and Middle East employers which involved the employment of thousands of seafarers. Eventually the company aims to gain the trust of other shipowners from the United Nations and Europe. With the growing industry, it became imperative to raise the level of service and competence of our personnel.

Cooking for the future, we shall continue with our services in providing support to our seafaring workers and in giving support to other shipowners and the world's ship manning industry.

Finally, we take this opportunity to express our profound thanks to our partners in the industry, the government agencies and to our valued clients.

ARMANDO SALAMAT JR.
President
SEASCO

For the past 30 years, Southeast Asia Shipping Corporation (SEASCO) has done more than just employment and built manpower for the shipping industry. More than anything, SEASCO is in the business of building the future of Filipino seafarers. 100% Filipino-owned, SEASCO's aim is not just to find job placements for their crew but to give them a career where they can grow personally, support their family, and reach their dreams.

Founded in 1981, SEASCO had a modest start in business, but over the years, the company has grown exponentially. With the passing of time, the company has been able to keep its focus on its core business. The company has been able to keep its focus on its core business. The company has been able to keep its focus on its core business. The company has been able to keep its focus on its core business.

Manila deep in debt —COA

'City arrears total P3.5B'

By OJC C. Cabañero

AS IF his problems with mounting garbage caused by the recent typhoon were not enough, Manila Mayor Alfredo Lim may find his city in a financial bind after the Commission on Audit (COA) reported the other day that the local government unit does not have enough cash to pay its debts caused by a bloated workforce.

In the latest report upgraded on its website, the COA said the Manila city government has unpaid debts of P3,502 million, or more than three times its cash holdings of P1,006 million.

More auditors said Manila's payroll exceeded the maximum spending limit of 10 percent of the total annual income from regular sources realized in the preceding fiscal year.

The COA ordered that Manila should have limited its only P2-650 billion in 2011 bond issue to P2,462 million income in 2012.

But the city actually defied its P3.434 billion in salaries and retirement benefits, on top of the P500.95 million in "financial assistance" to grant to its officials and employees.

The COA said the huge debt even more seriously exceeded under the maximum and other operating expenses system, when they should have been classified under personal services.

Apart from its tax dues to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the COA said the city did not meet employee contributions in the Government Service Insurance System, Home Development Mutual Fund (Pag-IBIG) and Philippine Health Insurance Corp. (PhilHealth).

There were also delays in the payment of the revenue share of the city's 50% homestead worth P11.301 million, hampering the delivery of basic services and the implementation of development projects and programs of the city council.

The COA questioned the legality of city officials not only in violating provisions, changes and interest from 6,126 delinquent tax payers, but also in giving them P404.12 million in tax discounts without any legal basis, further reducing the city's revenues.

The City Treasurer gave the assurance that the tax discounts granted without legal basis shall be included in the computation of the business taxes, fees and charges due the concerned taxpayers in the succeeding year, said COA.

Apart from maintaining a shaky balance sheet, the COA also questioned Manila's accounting policies.

In total an unreal physical count of Manila's property, plant and equipment yielded only an inventory worth P6,714 billion, or P1,060 billion of its supposed total asset holding, with an acquisition cost of P3,778 billion.

Trash just too much: Manila taps more trucks

By James T. Guill

IN ANOTHER sign of how dirty Manila is, not only the streets, but also the water, are now being polluted by trash. In the city's waterways, trash is being piled up by the thousands, and the water is becoming so polluted that it is no longer fit for drinking.

During this time, Manila is facing a major problem in getting rid of its trash. The city's trash collection system is overwhelmed, and the city is now having to use more trucks to collect the trash.

Manila's public works department, which is responsible for the city's trash collection, is now having to use more trucks to collect the trash. The city's trash collection system is overwhelmed, and the city is now having to use more trucks to collect the trash.

THE SENIOR High School Program under the Department of Education's "K to 12" scheme will soon be a permanent fixture in the University of Makati (UMak), which was the first in Metro Manila to open the program.

UMak said that while some of the early and secondary subjects (Philippines, English, Math, Science and Physical Education) are offered, the additional subjects have been developed by the program's academic advisors.

These are Science and Technology, Business Education, Government, Performing and Visual Arts, and Health Education.

It also offers training programs for teaching, health, business and management, and business management.

UMak will also give credits to all the courses offered under the K to 12 learning program if the senior high school students wish to transfer to another school and pursue higher education.

The K to 12 program is a response to the country's 13-year-old education system which consists of six years in elementary and four years in high school.

The new scheme has been given a go-ahead by the Department of Education, which is currently in the process of implementing the program.

The program is expected to be implemented in the next school year, with the first batch of students starting in the next school year.

Guards, barangay volunteers foil arson try in temple

IN A DARING ATTEMPT TO destroy a centuries-old temple, a group of arsonists tried to burn down the San Juan de los Rios Church in Manila last night. But the effort was foiled by the quick action of guards and barangay volunteers.

The church, located in the San Juan de los Rios neighborhood, is one of the oldest in Manila. It was built in the 17th century and is known for its beautiful architecture. The church was the target of the arsonists because of its historical value.

The arsonists tried to set fire to the church by throwing gasoline on the main altar. However, the guards and barangay volunteers quickly noticed the fire and tried to extinguish it. They used fire extinguishers and buckets of water to put out the fire.

The fire was contained within a few minutes and did not spread to other parts of the church. The arsonists were caught by the police and are now being held in custody.

The police are investigating the case and trying to identify the arsonists. They are also trying to determine the motive for the attack. The church is now closed for a few days for repairs and the community is mourning the loss of the church.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the physical fitness of 10-year-old children. The study was conducted in a primary school in the city of Ankara, Turkey. The study group consisted of 20 children (10 boys and 10 girls) who were randomly selected from the 10-year-old children in the school. The children were divided into two groups: a control group and an experimental group. The control group did not participate in any physical education program, while the experimental group participated in a 10-week training program. The physical fitness of the children was measured at the beginning and at the end of the 10-week period. The measurements included heart rate, blood pressure, and body mass index. The results of the study showed that the experimental group had significantly higher heart rates and blood pressures at the end of the 10-week period compared to the control group. The body mass index of the children in both groups did not change significantly. The study suggests that a 10-week training program can improve the physical fitness of 10-year-old children.

APC investing P1B in new hydro plant in Davao

By Amy R. Ramo

ASOTEC Power Corp. is spending P1-billion to put up the 7-megawatt Tulahe Hydroelectric plant in Sta. Cruz, Davao del Sur.

Though its newly named subsidiary, APC, is not, APC recently broke ground for the construction of the facility which is an extension project of the company's 423-MW Tulahe hydroelectric plant in Davao.

The Tulahe project will provide Davao and Mindanao, at a whole, with reliable, dependable and virtually instant energy, thereby strengthening the region's position as a dominant in the business, tourism and tourism.

APC president Francisco J. Garcia said in a statement.

The new hydroelectric plant, which will be named the Tulahe II, will be constructed within 180 days, starting from the start of the project.

It is expected to be completed in the first quarter of 2014, and will generate more than 100 employment opportunities in the local.

The project of the Tulahe II is expected to bring more benefits to the local community than the company's existing hydroelectric project that is now under construction.

According to APC, the facility will deliver 40.5 gigawatt-hours yearly to Davao del Sur.

The Tulahe hydroelectric power plant, which is used to generate electricity, has a capacity to generate 10,000 kilowatts of electricity.

More issues hound talks with Pangilinan group

By Photo S. Maras

GMA Network reported a 4 percent decline in its first-half profit to P1.04 billion from year-ago level, mainly due to a weak first-quarter performance.

In the second quarter, however, the network registered a 17 percent increase in its first-half profit to P1.04 billion from year-ago level, mainly due to a weak first-quarter performance.

The company expects to hit a profit of P1 billion this year, with the anticipated surge in advertising "advertisements" placements.

In the meantime, a viral of doubt has been cast over the planned merger between Manuel V. Pangilinan's TV network and GMA Network, where their respective interests could become more complicated.

When asked about the progress of negotiations for the deal, GMA chair Felipe L. Gozon said beyond its own initiative he would not say anything.

"Let's just wait and see how this will develop. There is an implication that if I say more, it is programming, it will not be a successful conclusion," he said.

"In all honesty, I cannot say that the transaction will end up with a successful conclusion," he said.

While declining to reveal details, Gozon, who represents one of three families that control GMA, said talks with the Pangilinan group were more than just the merger.

"It is interesting to say, but it is complex as well, there will always be issues. But all issues have been resolved yet," he said.

Like Pangilinan, he said if a deal was not reached within the year, the transaction would not likely push through.

The latest talks are Pangilinan's second attempt to take over GMA. He first tried to buy the company before the recent public offering of GMA in 2007.

Gozon claimed that he and his partners, the Gozon and Gozon families, were in no hurry to sell the company.

"We don't go out to the market and sell GMA. There are people who want to buy it, but we are just responding," he said.

Adding to GMA, Gozon said, would make him just a buyer, given the profitable the company is

Balanced Lifestyles and Intelligent Living

Progress often stems from a segmented viewpoint that constantly balances realistic undertones with idealistic realizations—a transformative convergence of dual methods that strategically increase the probability of reaching growth.

Known for nurturing a vibrant locale of balance-seeking urbanites determined to chase after their passions, Alabang provides its dwellers diverse cosmopolitan avenues for promoting active urban living. With accessibility to lifestyle necessities as a key advantage, Alabang's well-planned commercial areas, recreational complex, and technology hubs scattered throughout the vicinity amplifies its flourishing metropolitan feel.

A front-liner among the emerging cities of the South, Alabang has successfully integrated urban lifestyle essentials with the suburban laid-back charm—a balanced distinction that makes it a prime venue for modern living. Furthermore, the rise of the commercial real estate stock and the rapid increase in the occupancy of office spaces for BPOs in Alabang evidently makes it a bastion of burgeoning progress.

Lastly, the birth of new cities in the south like Nuvali, Mampleson, and Greenfields Development Complex, as well as new commercial developments and expansions from Alabang Town Center to Fairview Commercial Complex, establishes the city as a residential haven that fosters industrial progress.

With this in mind, Picar Development, Inc., a relatively new player in the real estate industry anchors on the district's progress through its first residential project in the area—The Chelsea Residences. Built under the precept that sophisticated and innovative living prospers well within balanced districts where vast opportunities for advancements bloom, The Chelsea Residences provide urban achievers with fully-integrated living solutions within a mid-range, mixed-use condominium development.

"What makes The Chelsea

Residences truly a place of balance in the emerging district of Alabang is the fact that it is a fully-integrated development that gives its future residents peace of mind in a thriving setting," shares Danilo B. Jugno, Picar Development Inc.'s general manager. "Consolidated its pioneering leadture, The Chelsea Residences integrates value added services from Cisco Systems, making it the first intelligent residential building in Alabang, a feature that complements the city's growth through living spaces that are in tune with the kind of lifestyle the area promotes."

The Chelsea Residences offers complete WiFi connectivity. A couple of other safety features that ensures the homeowners' safety are also being offered via the CISCO System technology such as the Child Locator, and the Integrated Safety and Security System.

A sprawling development of unparalleled residential and commercial appeal, The Chelsea Residences in Alabang is envisioned to be the place of balance that offers the perfect innovative living solutions for balance-seeking individuals who thrive on the complete lifestyle experience.

How Iñigo Elizalde went from rugs to riches

He was at the point of giving up—until in a trade fair, his booth caught the eye of a Vogue writer

By Margo C. Enriquez

AT THE RECENT New York International Contemporary Furniture Fair (ICFF), visitors to the Iñigo Elizalde Rugs booth kept gawking the provenance of the designs and the prices.

The rug patterns were abstractions from his initial trip of Florida, Kentucky and Tennessee. Instead, they also came from a more prosaic origin: that of the upland cotton and close-up of spotted winged flies and vases of flowers on a wall camp-north of his garden in Manila.

Initially, thought the patterns were Mexican. They were inspired to learn that the designs were references to the Philippines, the artist's birthplace.

"The an ancestor from" Elizalde, a Spanish-Filipino, told us.

The "New York-based" designer launched his organic collection for WTT home store and is looking for more sources of material and inspiration for his return to the Philippines.

Iñigo Elizalde Rugs is known for unusual designs which Elizalde based on photographs of nature and textures pulled from the designer's travels. From trees, animals, flowers, such as velvet, wool, silk, bamboo and bamboo, they're also known for high-quality craftsmanship done by weavers in the Philippines, Nepal and India. The artist's past is made from recycled bark.

In a recent home, Iñigo Elizalde Rugs can do anything for the client even if the design comes from a Pasig color clip in a box.

From Africa to Beijing

For WTT, Elizalde's earlier works were visual records of his extensive travels around the world.

Traveling around South Africa, he picked up the rug in the streets of Cape Town and interpreted their colorful patterns in a blue and black, just and beautiful.

On a safari, he photographed the stripes of zebras at the edge of the savanna in Cape Town and used them for his rug design on a small rug and a large rug.

The design of the rug is a mix of the two, with the stripes of the zebra and the stripes of the zebra.

The rug is a mix of the two, with the stripes of the zebra and the stripes of the zebra.

Elizalde produced his version of a plain rug with white stripes made of alternating lines of wool and cotton.

"We don't use single colors," he said. "We use the blue pattern and the blue pattern and the blue pattern."

While growing for 30 years, he discovered the rug's design, which involved him in the rug's design.

"The design of the rug is a mix of the two, with the stripes of the zebra and the stripes of the zebra."

With his design, Elizalde got a call from a client who wanted a rug for his home.

At the time, Elizalde was running a rug business in Madrid.

Upon his acceptance at the rug business, Elizalde had a rug business in Madrid.

ELIZALDE Design rug in a mix of the two, with the stripes of the zebra and the stripes of the zebra.

DOES this rug look like the rug of Iñigo? "It's a mix of the two, with the stripes of the zebra and the stripes of the zebra."

Elizalde said it was not what he wanted to pursue in life. His parents were into agriculture while his brothers were into business.

"I said it's what I love," he said. "I had really wanted to be a doctor. I was in high school, we had to choose a career. I chose the doctor in biology but the doctor is like a doctor. You had people, you had people, you had people."

The major was painting. Elizalde spent his years in a culture of highly motivated and creative individuals. Although he was the first son, Elizalde chose to pursue his career in the rug business.

After 1992, he came to Madrid to his first job as a rug designer. He was an artist or designer. With former 1992 rug designer Carlos Gálvez, he formed a rug business company, Ruga Ruga.

"It was my vision of the rug business," he said.

Tony Gonzales' unending break from tradition

After shocking the furniture scene with his Genie Chair, then his Melon Chair that was used in 'Sex and the City,' the designer continues to innovate

By Rhea C. Enriquez
Contributor

TASKED to give a baroque twist to a chair in the arm, designer Anthony Gonzalez devised an industrial design for Louis International challenged the notion of a chair with four legs—he coated an oversized bubble capsule with rubber and pillows, topped with a spine for a relaxation rack. He called it, aptly, the Genie Chair.

When other manufacturers saw the chair, Gonzalez was in a sticky place, they feared Louis International that producing that chair would be akin to suicide, that a rival would sell. Instead, Gonzalez's chair was a hit. "I'm not designing for me," design, you don't exist. It might turn out nice, but it won't sell," said Gonzales.

His discipline stems from his experience of working during the hours of night and manufacturing from the "10s to the early '60s. "When you design, you have to mind how well the material holds in time such material will be great," added Gonzales. It is important to be a "designer" in the "10s. Start with product research, "you also consider minute details such as how many products can fit in a cabinet," said Gonzales.

Scheduled and trained as a graphic designer, Gonzales produced printing, logo, cards and stickers. He progressed to creating three-dimensional products—hanging using paper.

In a claim for the Green for Interior Trade Report said Mexican (founded in 1995, he fabricated sets, screens and drapery of paper material of individual fabric upholstery. A traditional wing chair was upholstered with special woven paper and treated with water repellent.

The design was shared in 1996, leaving the layers divided. "Back then, I was just designing just to be in," he recalled.

Still, Gonzales cut the road in paper longer and, decades in the "10s. Start the use of special paper for upholstery for his furniture has become more sophisticated.

Gonzales has been designing for 100 years and still, that of his studio, door is closed, is displayed in the living room.

The process of designing with 100 years has been a collaboration. He observed that initially, they didn't want to design their office, they were accustomed to doing, Gonzales continued to work with them and would give them credit. "It's not design, not mine," he said.

Asked what he does for self-expression, Gonzales pointed to his abstraction, most of them in acrylic. He plans to open a small art room with design for 100 years in Mexico, Guadalajara.

It will be a design gallery. "It's taking our design concept to another level. We want to do something where we can really express ourselves. That's design. Product design is what we reflect what people want, not what we want. We have responsibilities to our country, people. If your design doesn't sell, they won't call you again, at the end of the day, you have to ask, Do you design for the product or for the appliance?"

A perfect Sunday for Angelica and John Lloyd

BZA Pukkath celebrated his birthday last Aug. 11 with a huge concert and a medical mission.

AMERICA Wangsness and John David Gray have moved on from their previous relationships with Bethany and Shaina Magallanes, respectively. It seems they're ready to venture into a new chapter within time—based on Wangsness' Instagram pic, which she is called "A Perfect Sunday" according to the caption in pink G4," with the caption: Welcome Happiness. I pursued. Welcome anyone especially those who are smiling out of season."

At press time, Angel and Bepko have garnered 6,139 "likes" on IG. It has elicited 586 comments, ranging from positive to critical ones.

At this point, both of them may not know yet for sure where they are headed but they are surviving the crisis there.

Instead of passing judgment on Angelina and Lavarde, let's wish
